MR HUTCHESON-Dear Sir :- I feel it to be my duty to say a word upon th merits of your Celebrated Ointment. I am constrained, from experience, to pronounce it the best Healing and Pain Killing Agent I have even seen employed. A few months since, my little son got one of his legs broken, after which he was carried a considerable distance, which caused ex-treme soreness of the broken limb; I applied your Ointment, and in less than three hours all soreness had disappeared. A short time since, a member of my family was taken with malignant sore throat, and I unhesitatingly say that, within one hour after the first application. he was almost entirely relieved. I write far the benefit of the suffering.

A superb poem upon the death of Talfourd, which recently appeared in the London Punch, is challengng universal encomiums from the critics at home and abroad. A stanza or two will convey an impression of the poem as a whole:

Ere the war-clouds, darkly closing,
Shudder to the rending flash, Ere a world holds breath to listen To the opening thunder crash:
Hear, from yonder seat of judgment,
Words of peace—the true—the best—
Ah!—the noble words are stifled, And a noble heart hath rest!

Dead! He should have died bereafter! Time had come for such a word,
When the day of fight was oger,
And the triumph-bells were heard.
Statesmen—Minister of Justice—
Friend of all who needed friend. Poet-might yet not have tarried, Seen our conflict to an end?

The Will of Peter the Great. We copy from the Baltimore Times this strange locument. It appeared in La Presse (Paris) in 1818. There are some parts which do not appear to be genu ine, but still the document itself is full of mighty significance. The destiny of Russia is marked out in the following thirteen paragraphs:

1. To have the Russian nation constanty at war, that the soldiery may be always disciplined and ready for action. ficient and celebrated military officers in Europe during war, and highly educated, scientific men of all countries, in time of peace, that the Russians may enjoy the advantages of other countries without losing their own identity. 3. To take part, on all occasions, in the disputes and contentions among the States of Europe, especially those of Germany, in which, as the nearest, we are the most directly interested. 4. To subdue Poland; foment there continual rivalries and disturbances; gain their nobles by bribery; influence their diets, and, by intrigue, take action in the election of their kings; form partizan cliques, and, for their protection, send them Muscovite troops, to remain in the country until the moment of complete occupation. #### The Bear in Mr. Punch's Menagerie. BY THE KEEPER.

There he is, ladies and gentlemen! Let me direct your attention to that gigantic and bulky kevodruped, the Rooshan Bear. This hinterestin' but illlookin' speciment of Natural Istory is, as his name implies, an inhabitant of the North of Europe: in which dominions the Lion bein unknown, he is looked upon by the unhappy and ignorant natives as the King of Beasts. In disposition, howsomdever, he by no means, resembles the generosity and magnanimity of that noble hanimal; his natur' partakin' of the craft and cunnin' of the iox, the malice of the hape or haboon, and the fierceness and woracity of the larfin' iena. The hanimal now before you, ladies and gentlemen is well known. He is better known than trusted. Bears in general is treacherous hanimals; but more particular that there individile of the genius .-He keeps his eye upon his prey for years together; awaitin' his hopportunity an undered times patienter and slier than a cat watchin a mouse. In the meanwhile he conceals carniverous propensities with so much art as to impose upon and deceive the closest hobserver; whereby experienced judges have been led into the mistake of supposin' of him to be a wegetable feeder. In consequence of the hinsidjus character of the Rooshan Bear I ope ladies and gentlemen will excuse me from wenturin' on the dangerous attempt of henterin' his den. This azardous and foolardy experiment has been tried by three Quakers, who is said to have went in and shook im by the por; but I ave not yet eerd whether they've come out again.

The Rooshan Bear is notorious for his cruelty and windictiveness to the human specie; and 'specially to the female sect, in which barbarity he exceeds the Howrang Howtang. The story of the unfortunit Nuns of Minsk, whose back was so cruelly lacerated by this onmerciful brute is too familiar to inspire comment.

Though the inhabitant of Russia, the Bear of that country extends his ravidges and depredations into the adjinin' territories in all directions, as far as he possible can. Being sometimes resisted by the courage of the poppilation, he is forced to beat a retreat, and take to his eels with a flea in his ear, and a soreed, wich as been more than wunce inflicted by the renowned Schamyl, the Lion Wallis of Circassia. The diet of the Rooshan Bear consists mostly of the witals of the nation, or innards, which he is purwided with under the influence of fear by the Rooshan serfs, to satisfy his mawr. Peraps you'll be of opionion that them as demeans themselves to carry im is wisera, is a sort of creechurs that ain't fit for no better employment. and sullen, interrupted with fits of rage and frenzy; when he goes down on his marrow-bones and turns his eyes up into his 'ed growlin' meanwhile and showin' his teeth in a manner orrible to witness and painful to relate. Of late this hanimal has grown so furious that we have resolved to chain and muzzle him, which, though a service of danger and difficulty we shall endeavor to accomplish hundeterred by peril and regardless of expense.

I shall now, ladies and gentlemen, proceed to exhibit some highdear of this hanimal's ferocity, by means of stirrin' him up with a long Pole; a Pole in his flank bein', as you will observe, a sort of thing as renders him particklarly cantankerus.

FOR GOVERNOR, THOMAS BRAGG

Of Northampton Gen. Dockery in Wilmington.

The Candidate of the Whig Convention for Gover nor of North Carolina, addressed the people on last Monday afternoon in the Court-House in this place. The attendance was very large. He was replied to by Col. S. J. Person of Wilmington. We knew some thing, and had heard more of the independent style of speaking adopted by Gen. Dockery; but we are now convinced that the half had not been told us, and certainly no account from others could have prepared us for the actual contrast between the cool, courteous and argumentative style of Col. Person, and the scattering and ragged remarks, as well as the rude and uncouth manner of Gen. Dockery; and when we speak of this manner, we do not mean the mere bluntness of a plain man, but the rudeness of a naturally coarse one, who is incapable of feeling how far such conduct degrades the individual who may resort to it. while it falls harmless at the feet of its object. To represent Gen. Dockery's conduct on Monday as a type of the farmers and planters of North Carolina, is simply a libel upon men who, if not in all cases enjoying the advantages of a finished education, are never forgetful of what is due from one man to another. We say nothing about the purity of the General's diction Some of its vulgarities must have been assumed for effect: for we look upon it as next to impossible that any man, possessing common sense, could have seen as much of the world and of public life as General Dockery has done, without the results being in some way perceptible. This much we have thought necessary to say by way of entering our protest against the mode of electioneering initiated by the nomination of Gen. Dockery, and now being carried out in its full length and breadth by that gentleman him-

We will now turn to the discussion, merely premising, that, being unable to get a seat, we took no notes, and must trust to memory; we cannot, therefore, pretend to give more than the substance. General Dockery declared himself in favor of Free

Suffrage, and also in favor of amending the constitution by means of a convention, instead of by Legislative enactment, contending that the conventional plan was the quickest and most effectual-that a body called together, as the convention would be, for the sole purpose of amending the constitution, would contain abler men and be farther removed from party influences than the Legislature-citing the names of Gaston, Macon, Daniel, Owen, Meares and others who were members of the convention of 1835. That by this convention all matters of constitutional amendment might be put to rest for twenty years .-He did not think there was any desire in the West to some Western Counties that he believed did not, although he confessed there were a great many that did. In the West, although there were fewer slaves, nothing to do with it. ] He was against any change in the basis. Gen. Dockery was in favour of the exthe School Fund on the Federal basis.

He avowed himself in favor of internal improvements. He was for Beaufort. He had always been for Beaufort. He wanted a railroad from Beaufort to the mountains. He said there were two ways of building this work : The Whig method was by getting the public lands distributed, and of paying for the work out of what would fall to the share of North Carolina. This plan he was in favor of. The Democratic plan was by taxation-this he was opposed to. He said the Western States were getting lands to build Railroads, and that North Carolina ought to get lands too. The lands were squandered away to the West by Congress. He particularly alluded to the Illinois Central Railroad Bill, granting alternate sections for a road in Illinois. He charged upon a Democratic Congress for passing this bill and excused Mr. Fillmore for approving it! He said that distribution was a Whig measure, but the Whigs had always received Democratic aid, and referred to Judge Saunders, Mr. Leake, and others. He said that the Democrats in the last Legislature were split into four parties on this question, and he did not know how to take them. He hoped the Democrats would all agree upon what was the Constitution, and not require him to fight, like a porcupine, on all sides. Mr. Bragg had remarked that he would not see North Carolina in the position of a beggar at the feet of the General Government. Nor would he; he didn't consider it

The General then referred to General Pierce's administration, which part of his speech, as affording nothing but what any body may see any time in any whig newspaper in the country-the General's being a little the worst version of the old story we have yet read or heard, we will forbear reference to.

In conclusion, General Dockery stated that he had been placed in his present position by the action of the Whig Convention, and without any agency or desire on his part; but that now, having accepted the nomination, he would not coneeal the fact that he was desirous of being elected

Perhaps we should have stated that General Dock. ery said in the earlier part of his speech that Free Suffrage was not a new matter with him. He cited his course in the convention of 1835 as having voted for giving to the people the election of Governor.

Our review of General Dockery's remarks, though brief, gives, we believe, all the points which he seemed to make, and does him, in that respect, more than full justice. His graceful witticisms, which set in motion gold headed canes innumerable, we are forced to omit, from a feeling of our inability to do justice to

Col. Person, in reply to General Dockery upon the subject of "Free Suffrage" and of a Convention, remarked, that such electioneering came with a bad grace from a party, which, two years since, had so loudly denounced the intermixture of the subject with politics, and quoted from the Wilmington Herald to show Whig views two years since upon this subject. But things had changed since then. The Whig party, originally in opposition to Free Suffrage, which they had stigmatised by every opprobrious epithet, had at length discovered that the people were determined to have this change, and hence their altered tone. But the manner in which it was proposed to effect Free Suffrage was one that must have a direct tendency to defeat it, and he felt no besitation in saying that if the people waited for Free Suffrage until it was brought about by a convention, young men then listening to his voice would find the snows The Democratic method of Legislative enactment and ultimate submission to the people would and

-the very reverse." Mr. Person resumed.] He, Mr. Person, had recently conversed with a distinguished and leading member of the Convention of 1835.—he had the authority of Hon. John D. Toomer for saying that such was the opinion of every memever upon the subject : and if the General felt so secure of the power of limitation, why should he so earnestly endeavor to show that there was no danger to be apprehended from the wishes of the Western cussion. The rest had nothing to do with it. Counties in Convention? Besides, the resolutions of the Whig Convention only proposed one limitation to a mighty long letter there." the powers of a Convention, namely—that it should pear upon the record in favor of the amendment .-Here General Dockery said it did, upon the enrollown merits, he had not voted for it.]

General Dockery and the Whig Convention of North Carolina were for a distribution of the public not given the matter half as strongly as it oclands, and talked of it as a matter believed by them curred. Let them judge. Towards the first adto be really practicable, although they knew that it dress, the argument in chief of General Dockery, w had been dropped at the last National Convention of have no objection to urge. That man was not a sincere friend of Internal Improvement in North Carolina who taught the people to look for aid to others, rather than to find success sis was in no danger from the West. [Note.—The] in their own exertions, while he also exaggerated the vote on Federal basis is not a personal privilege; it is difficulties to be encountered and the debt to be incurred in prosecuting the necessary works. If, as General Dockery said, there were two plans of Internal Improvement-the Whig plan being to build tension of Free Schools and of the Distribution of works with the public lands, and the Demogratic plan to build them by taxation-it was evident the Democratic plan was the only one proposed in good faith. since General Dockery must be as well aware as any man that the idea of getting funds from the distribution of the public lands was a mere chimera-a thing which everybody considered impossible. But there was a way in which Internal Improvements might have been practically benefitted, namely-by the reduction or remission of duties on iron; but General Dockery, while in Congress, had voted against even an extension of time upon Railroad iron, and that, too, while Railroads in his own State were applicants such accommodation. Mr. Dockery had talked very largely of gifts of lands to the new States and quandering, and yet had himself voted in favor of a motion to reconsider and revive a defeated project of the kind in the last Congress. He also mentioned the fact of General Dockery having voted against an investigation into claims allowed under Mr. Fillmore's administration, and yet voting for an investigation of those allowed under Mr. Polk's, being thus anx ious to have an examination of one and desirous of staving off that of the other. Col. Person spoke of the relative positions of parties upon Internal Improvement, and showed the comprehensive and libecharacter of the resolution upon that subject passed by the Democratic Convention, upon which Mr. Bragg stood, which was not confined to any particular work, but which embraced as well the Deep River as the Central Road-which, in fact, went for the promotion of all the interests of the State. After alluding to the charges brought against General Pierce and the Democratic party, showing their position at the North upon the Nebraska Bill ments in New York, Mr. Person expressed his regret for the necessary absence of Mr. Bragg, and his thanks for the attention which he had received from the meeting, although the pressure of engagements had prevented his arranging and condensing his remarks as he could have wished

The mere fact that the improvement of the public lands in the Western States or Territories tends to increase the prosperity of the communities in which they are located, is hardly a fair ground for opposition from men of liberal feelings. The prosperity of our brethren can surely be no cause of grief or harm to us, unless attained at our expense.

Again: On Internal Improvements, it seems to be the grand aim and object of the Observer and other Whig papers to represent Mr. Bragg as inimical to States and applying it to Internal Improvements by the States. The Observer knows as well as we do that such is not the case. It knows that, in all the mportant movements made in the Legislature for the great works of the State, the Democrats have borne a full share But it distrusts Mr. Bragg, and it don't like the Democratic resolutions. April 29, 1854. HARNET.

For the Journal. WASHINGTON HOTEL, May 2d, 1854. Mr. Editor:-In your last weekly issue I noticed an article, signed by "A Citizen," in which he alleged that "three young men had been rendering their names conspicuous in the papers," also "dictating to a whole County." Now, Mr. Editor, all who will reflect for a moment upon the course usually adopted by all bodies, in the last few days on professional business, your letgiving publicity to their proceedings, will at once see ter, informing me officially, of my nomination, by the falsity of the above assertion. Upon the same the convention which lately assembled in Raleigh, ground that he accuses the "three young men" of rendering their names conspicuous," in order to carry out his principle, he is bound to make the same accusation against the committee of all other bodies, (it matters not whether they are religious, social or political,) or forsake his principle, and, as an honor able man, revoke the above assertion as unjust.

As for "dictating to the whole county," we say positively, that we have laid down no rules or precepts for the action of others unless their judgment approves of them. There is no binding authority or compulsion about them. We made a frank and open avowal of our views and sentiments, which we claim we have a right to do, either from the stump, through the press or at the private fire-side. We freely accord the same inestimable blessing to others. If such prising indeed to us that this doctrine (namely that es of the Convention, and accept the nomination. we will vote for no man for the next Legislature who ticed by the Temperance men of this State, should manner in which it has pleased you to communicate most wonderful medicine. appear so dictatorial and offensive to the "Citizen," to me the fact of my nomination. who voluntarily asserts, that, he is as strong a Temperance man as there is in the country.

Now, Mr. Editor, we will give the "Citizen" understand that we are not "lords of the manor," but that we are lords enough not to bow to his will, nor reverence his authority. We know our own minds, and we intend to speak them, regardless of the whining complaints of political demagogues. We hope that we will not have to return to this subject ONE OF THE THREE.

The Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of this institution was held at their Banking House in this town, on the 1st and 2nd inst. Daniel Dickson, Esq., appearing as proxy for the State. In the course of the proceedings, the following resolution was adopted. Resolved, That so much of the report of the President and Directors, as refers to the death of John W. Wright, Esq., the late Casher of the Branch of this Bank at Fayetteville and to his long continued and faithful services, as an officer of this institution, be published. The following extract from the report of the President and Directors embraces so much of said report as is referred to in the foregoing resolution, viz :-"Although the Bank has been fortunate in her pecuniary transactions within the past year, yet we have to record a serious loss in the death of her oldest and most valuable officer. Mr. John W. Wright had been an officer of the Branch at Fayetteville for nearly forty years, and had established a character for integrity, accuracy, neatness, and promptness in the discharge of his duties, which constituted him a model for all officers in like situations, while his sound judgment, extended experience, and close application to the varied business incident to his position had most deservedly placed him among the first financial officers of our country."

NEW YORK, May 1 .- The Collins steamer Pacific. wirh Liverpool dates to the 19th April, has arrived. There is no new features in the progress of the war, except the reported capture of six Russian merchant vessels laden with munitions of war. The London News states, that Admiral Napier's fleet had put to sea with the view, it was supposed, of attacking the Russian fleet. Five Russian ships, loaded with lead, sulphur, &c., had been captured by an English frigate. Navigation is fast opening the Russian and Turkish ports.

The Russians had dismantled their island fortresses, burned their shipping, and retired with their guns to the main land.

The French squadron had sailed to join Napier in the Baltic. Admiral Dundas was preparing to blockade and attack Odessa.

Sanguinary skirmishes occur daily on the Danube. The Russians had maintained themselves in Dorbrudsha.

Omer Pascha would not hazard an attack until his allies were in his rear. Ten thousand had reached Gallipolis.

The Greek insurrection is feeble, but still exists. No operation had taken place in Asia, on account f unfavorable weather.

The Circassians had gained several victories over the Russians, compelling them to evacute forts and retire to their ships. Some garrisons had been cut to pieces.

England demands that Spain shall refuse the admittance of Russian privateers into Spanish ports. The rumors of the entrance of the Austrians into Servia is supposed to be true: but it has not been confirmed.

Varna is defended by 6000 men, and reinforcements have been asked from the fleet. At Matochin the combat was sanguinary—three Russian and three Egyptain battalions remained dead on the field LATEST .- The Austrain entrance into Servia is confirmed. An important Russian fortress, in Lower Wallachia, was accidently burnt, and a large amount of military stores were destroyed. All the Russian ports are declared as being under blockade. The English and French treaty of alliance, offen sive and defensive had been signed at Paris.

The combined fleets were before Odessa on the 1st April. The city was garrisoned by 90,000 Rus-Holland and Hungary were watching an opportunity to consumate plans of political advancement. ST. PAUL'S CHURCH, BALTIMORE, DESTROYED B FIRE. -On Saturday mornining last, about 1 o'clock, that large and beautiful edifice, St. Paul's Episcopal Church, corner of Charles and Saratoga streets, Baltimore, was discovered to be on fire, and before the flames could be checked the whole interior of the vast structure was destroyed, leaving nothing standing except the bare walls and the lofty steeple. The church contained a costly organ, which was also destroyed. Fortunately the iron safe, containing the records and other papers of the diocese of Maryland, immense bell of the church fell with a crash, and was broken in pieces. The church originally cost one hundred thousand dollars. The present loss is estimated at $50,000. Insured for $20,000 in the

It was my good fortune, Mr. Editor, to be present at the annual celebration of this festive occasion by the scholars under the tuition of Miss Hettie James and together with a goodly crowd assembled, was much gratified at the successful manner in which the very interesting ceremonies were conducted. The extreme youth of her Majesty and suite rendered the occasion one of much interest. We were pleased with the artless simplicity with which her Majesty addressed her subjects; and the confidence with which the several speeches were delivered, reflected great credit upon both scholars and teacher.

BALTIMORE, March 24, 1854. MFSSRS MORTIMER & MOWERAY-Gentlemen:—I wish to inform you of the benefit I have derived from the use of Dr. Hampton's Vegetable Tincture From my earliest recollections, I scarcely ever enjoyed a day's health. For a number of years I was under the treat-ment of the most skilful physicians of this city. My disease was pronounced by them Liver Complaint and Dispepsia, with an affection of the nerves and lungs. I derived very little if any benefit from their treatment. I also tried various remedies, and highly recommended, to no good effect. My health continued to fail until last September, when my mind became seriously affected; my memory failed; great weakness, fainting fits, and could not eat without great pain, until life became a burthen. I was entirely useless to my family. Just at this time a friend procured for me a bottle of this valuable Tincture. It had a most powerful effect up-on me, in the restoration of my health; and now after taking three bottles, to my great joy, I can say my health is perfectly restored, spetite good, and I now enjoy better health than I ever have at any previous time during my whole life, all of which I can safely ascribe to the use of this

TRUTH STRANGER THAN FICTION! ONWARD MARCH!
Hampton's Vegetable Theture Victorious. More than Gold to the Sick .- From one of the most re-ectable Druggists in South Carolina. Messrs. Mortimer & Mowbrary:—The sale of your HAMPTON'S VEGETABLE TICTURE is increasing every day, and every bottle sold recommends this valuable medicine to the afflicted. Several of our planters have tried in different cases with astonishing success, and are getting it by half dozens, It has been found to be the greatest Remedy for Rheumatic Affections, and a wonderful cure has been performed on a negro boy suffering by Fits. I will furnish you with a number of certificates if you wish them.

Please send me as soon as possible a supply of the Tincture.

I am gentlemen, yours, W. G. TROTT.

REV. VERNON ESKRIDGE, U. S. N. Mr. J. E. Boush—Sir: While I am in general opposition to atent Medicines, candor compels me to state that I have great infidence in the virtues of HAMPTON'S VEGETABLE TINCLIFIE. TURE. For several months past I have used it in my family, and in dispepsia, loss of appetite, dizziness and general debility, with entire success. So far as my experience extends, therefore, I take pleasure in recommending it to the afflicted, as a safe and efficient recommending it to the afflicted.
